How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headaches ensue; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmonds Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficiency.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED. As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced. It seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

Clearing Waste Pipes.

The annoyance arising from the stoppage of waste pipes in country houses, although very great, is but a small matter when compared with the dangers which may follow obstructed pipes. The "sewer gas" about which so much has been written, and which is so justly dreaded, is not as many suppose, the exclusive product of the sewer. Indeed, the foul and dangerous gases are not only found in the sewers themselves, but in the unventilated waste pipes, and those which are in process of being clogged by the foul matter passing through them. Any obstruction in the soil or waste pipes is, therefore, doubly dangerous, because it may produce an inflow of foul gas into the pipe, even though the entrance to the sewer itself has been entirely cut off.

The question is, how to get rid of the accumulations in pipes partly stopped or already closed. Digging up and cleaning out is a costly remedy, often ineffectual by reason of careless workmen. The second is the plumber's force pump, which is usually only a temporary relief.

In pipes leading from the house to the cesspool, there is a constant accumulation of grease. This enters as a liquid, and hardens as the water cools, and is deposited on the bottom and sides of the pipe. As these accumulations increase, the waterway is gradually contracted till the pipe is closed.

When the pipe is entirely stopped or allows the water to fall away by drops only, proceed thus: Empty the pipe down to the trap, as far as practicable, by "mopping up" with a cloth. If the water flows very slowly, begin when the pipe at last empties itself. Fill the pipe up with potash, crowding it with a stick. Then pour hot water upon it in a small stream, stopping as soon as the pipe appears to be filled, as the potash dissolves and disappears, add more water. At night a little heap of potash may be placed over the hole, and water enough poured on so that a supply of strong lye will flow into the pipe during the night. It is also well to fill the upper part of the pipe with the potash, as before, and allow hot water to trickle upon it. Soda and potash are both used for the purpose of removing greasy obstructions, and the usual method of application is to form a strong lye and pour it into the pipe.

It is better to put the potash into the pipe, because the water which it contains, instead of diluting, helps to form the lye. As water comes in contact with the potash it becomes hot, thus aiding in dissolving the grease. Potash, in combination with grease, forms a soft or liquid soap, which easily flows away; while the soda makes a hard soap, which if not dissolved in water, would itself obstruct the pipe.

When a pipe is once fairly cleaned out, the potash should be used from time to time, in order to dissolve the greasy deposits as they form, and carry them forward to the cesspool or sewer. The potash is very valuable for this purpose, because, in addition to its greasy dissolving powers, it is exceedingly destructive to all animal and most vegetable matters.

The most dangerous gases appear to come from urinals and wash basin pipes; these in many cases seem more foul than those from waterclosets. The decay of the soap and animal matter washed from the skin appears to be the source of the gases. The potash will be effective in keeping these pipes clear, and in this way may lessen the dangers. -Artisan.

A huckster from the market yesterday halted a farmer on Grand River avenue with: "Hey, are you loaded with produce?" "Hump!" sneered the farmer as he puffed up. "We don't grow any of that stuff our way."

"What do you grow?" "Well, we dabble more or less in produce, and I've got a load of it here."

"That's given me a hint," said a potato peddler, who had stopped his vehicle to make a dicker. "I've been calling it 'proad-yuse' for the last dozen years, and what must the critics have thought of me?"

A Cincinnati speculator went over into Kentucky to take a look at an oil spring which a farmer claimed to have discovered on his land. Sure enough, the surface of the water was covered with oil, and could be traced along the creek for a mile. "Well, what do you think?" inquired the farmer, after a long investigation. "Why, I think you have used three barrels of petroleum around here," replied the capitalist. "Hump! That shows how awful sharp you are. I didn't use but one and a half."

INDIANS AT SCHOOL.

GLIMPSES OF THE ESTABLISHMENT AT CARLISLE, PA.

Phenomenal Success of the Institution. The Fierceness of Savagery Disappears Under the Influence of Civilization. An Indian Marriage.

When one takes into consideration that in the boys and girls now at the Carlisle school there are represented such tribes as the fierce Cheyennes; the moody Sioux with their high cheek bones and straight forms; the vindictive Comanches; the Diggers, one of the lowest and most degraded tribes; the treacherous Pawnees; the Pueblos, a half Mexican, half Indian tribe; the Navajos, that have been called the Gypsies of the Indians; the cruel and murderous Kiowas; the heavy, stupid Shoshones; the Nez Percés, one of the most cunning of all the tribes; the Creeks, Crowds, Modocs, the Poncos, the powerful Arapahoes, and the most stealthy and treacherous of all these, the Apaches, the realization of all that has been accomplished there seems almost phenomenal. I have seen hundreds of photographs of the young men and women now there, and a number of their fathers, among whom were some of the most noted Indian chiefs, and the majority of them, taken at the time of their arrival, show the original to be a set of the most repulsive, miserable, squalid, painted creatures, adorned, in many instances, with all the splendid savage ornamentation of beads, animal teeth and quill work and tattooing.

Some of the older Indian boys now at the school are fine looking, stalwart young fellows, who arrived there a few years ago in all the Indian regalia of gay blankets, hoop earrings, gaudy ornaments, beads and feathers, and the photographs taken of them upon their arrival show in their expression a fierceness that seems to have entirely disappeared with the acquisition of more civilized habits and intelligent ideas. Some of the gay paraphernalia owned by the Indian boys and girls is of a most interesting description, notably a mantle that was probably used upon occasions of great Indian celebrations or pow-wows that belonged to one of the more advanced pupils, who has been at Carlisle for some time. It was a Sioux girl, who arrived at the school some four years ago, bringing with her an unusual number of splendid pieces of Indian apparel - an uncommon case of this kind, as the Sioux, excepting in one who was like herself, the daughter of a great chief. This mantle is of heavy woven blanket like texture, thickly studded with glittering, sharp, white elk's teeth, and is accompanied by a band or belt of leather, also studded with beads and small elk's teeth. With it are worn a dozen or so strands of large various colored beads that encircle the neck and reach down almost to the knee. Suspended from the ears, like earrings, are two long, straplike ornaments formed of twelve or fourteen rows of small white beads, and several necklaces, one on bits of buckskin. The entire arrangement forms a very gorgeous Indian mantle of state, and was recently purchased by the Smithsonian Institute, where it can now be seen in Washington.

The Navajos are one of the most picturesque tribes that have sent their children to Carlisle, and upon arrival they are usually well supplied with gay blankets, beads, and belts, and moccasins, covered frequently with elaborate beadwork, and about their necks hang strands of various colored glass beads. They are considered the most glib of all the Indian tribes. Some of the Indian boys show this fondness for decorating their personal attire in their work, and this inclination is particularly noticeable in the tailor shop, where not unfrequently a boy will embroider the most elaborate designs upon the linings of the vests or jackets, while others sew labels on "darning" words or entire sentences, as one boy made a jacket to fit himself worked on the lining: "Please do not give to another boy this coat. I made it to myself." The tailor shop is a favorable place with many of the boys, as they seem to take more than kindly to sewing the bits of bright braid on the blue uniforms and ornamenting the gayer colored linings.

Several of the older pupils who have been at this training school have gone back to the Indian reservations, and against the strongest tide of opposition, they have succeeded in doing a vast amount of good work, and from the different Indian agencies Capt. Pratt is constantly in receipt of the most encouraging reports concerning the various branches of trade in which they are engaged. Two or three marriages have taken place at the school, one or two having connected with them not a little romance. Of these the most interesting relates to a young Indian named Etahdeldul. He was formerly a prisoner in Florida, but was afterwards sent to the school at Hampton, where Capt. Pratt found him and selected him to pay a visit to the various Indian tribes in the far west and collect pupils for the Carlisle school, which Etahdeldul did with much intelligent discretion, and upon his return he became one of the assistants in drilling the boys. When he had continued improving himself to such an extent in his work and in his studies that he was interested with more numerous duties that made him a very useful assistant to Capt. Pratt, he one day greatly surprised that estimable gentleman by coming into his presence and abruptly saying: "When I was in Florida and the good ladies teach me, I think about what they say about trying to be good boy. I no think about girls. When I go west with you I think about getting scholars and persuading the Indians to follow the white man's road. I get my sister and Laura and all my friends I can. WILLIAM KISSANE.

In another column will be found an able article written in defense of Wm. Kissane. It is from the pen of the Hon. D. O. Shattuck, one of Sonoma's oldest and most respected citizens—a man whose life has been so pure that the reflection of a calcium light turned full upon his honored career would fail to show a blemish there. That such a man should raise his pen to defend one who stands charged with the most heinous offenses known to the law, and which are not denied, is both picturesque and startling. The sentiment expressed by the writer is most ingeniously constructed, but falls to the ground when it is charged, and not denied, that the accused, although the Croesus of Sonoma Valley, has failed to make restitution to those he has wronged. The family of Wm. Kissane is deserving of public sympathy, but if he be the villain pictured in the Press of the whole world he should be brought to justice, not screened, else the frame work of our social system falls to the ground.

NEWSPAPER DEAD BEATS.

This is the season of the year when newspaper dead beats roam throughout the rural districts in quest of suckers. Several have already made their appearance in this valley thus far this season and more will come. It behooves the farmer and business man to be on his guard. These gentry are always smooth talkers, travel on cheek and generally get to the farmer's pocket by representing or misrepresenting the peculiar features of the particular publication they represent as an advertising medium. The first of this ilk, a man named J. F. Cache and representing himself as an Examiner reporter, made his appearance here about four weeks ago. He got in his work in good style, but becoming emboldened by his success in this valley he over-reached the mark in Santa Rosa and new lies in the County Jail with several charges of forgery and obtaining money under false pretences registered against him. In regard to the parties who are now working this section in the interests of the San Francisco Journal of Commerce for a sort of boom publication of that paper, and who, by the way, have already scooped up between $200 and $800 from our farmers, the Petaluma Courier has the following: "This is the same concern which got up a similar edition a couple of years since. The whole work turned out by them is inferior in every respect—poor paper, worn-out type, cheap engravings and inferior printing. The papers after being printed are not generally circulated, but sent to those who pay for notices. The advertisers then send out a few and the balance are used for waste paper. At least that was the result of the former issue." If the people who are importuned for patronage by traveling dead beats would only bear in mind that their local printing office can supply everything offered in the way of printing and advertising, they would be the gainers thereby and the occupation of the dead beat newspaper solicitor would be gone.

The Viticultural Commissioners have been notified that the thrip-dy or vine-hopper, a pest that has made great ravages in past years, has made its appearance in several localities, particularly in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys, and is likely to do much damage to vineyards. The coast valleys may escape the pest.

Governor Bartlett has appointed Niles Searle Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, vice R. F. Morrison, deceased.

The popular blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla, is having a tremendous sale this season. Nearly everybody takes it. Try it yourself.

CALIFORNIA WINE MERCHANTS.

There is probably no body of men in the State so abused, and at times so wrongfully abused, as our San Francisco wine dealers. Every fault of the grower is visited on their heads. If wine cannot be sold they are blamed for not buying. If the market is glutted they are blamed for not opening up immediately new markets and are accused of causing the fall in prices. But it should be admitted that it is owing to the enterprise and energy of certain San Francisco houses that the market is as good and wide as it is. That we do blame some of them justly for certain practices cannot be denied, for, excepting two firms, none of them have in any way encouraged the production of high-class wines, and we must deem those who consider that the only quality of wine is cheapness as being guilty of a grave offense against the advancement of what would otherwise be a prosperous industry, but we cannot accuse any of the dealers as encouraging the present overstocked condition of the wine market, as one and all unceasingly warned growers that planting was being carried on more rapidly than new markets could be found. If the Chronicle's allegations are true regarding cherry juice, then the firms using it are deserving of the severest condemnation and exposure, for any amount of deep colored wines can be purchased in this State, but not at starvation prices.

It is extremely difficult to classify the San Francisco buyers for amongst them are to be found those who will only buy high-class wines—wines of high grade—others who will not offer for any wine a price that is not more than equal to the cost of production, some who only want red wines, others require altogether wines of Rhenish type and others again who openly state that fine wines are not at all in their way of business.

LACHMAN & JACOBI.

Probably the largest buyers on the coast are Messrs. Lachman & Jacobi, both are shrewd men of business. Mr. Lachman generally does the buying whilst Mr. Jacobi attends to the office work. This firm does an immense business out of the State in comparatively low-priced wines and have agencies in almost every town of importance in the Union. They are extremely close buyers and are the readiest purchasers amongst the dealers, no matter what the market is—always offering some price or another, when no other firms will make any bid whatever. This is probably the only firm in the city which will buy wine without ever seeing it when they know who they are dealing with. It is thus: "Is it good?" "Yes." "Color and quality?" "Yes." "Well, we will give you so and so for it," and the bargain is closed. Mr. Lachman is noted for his activity and energy and the amount of ground he can travel over in a year. Mr. Jacobi, with Messrs. Bundschu, Harasathy, Frowenheit, Henry Kohler and Hans Kohler form the group of dressers of the wine business. The firm as a rule do not buy high priced wines.

S. LACHMAN & CO.

Next in ratio of business probably follows S. Lachman & Co., extremely close buyers of cheap wines, but this year they have purchased at least one good cellar—that of the Guillicos, paying a good price for it, and it is to be hoped that this wine will not by accident become French claret, but go on the market as good, true, California wine, as it is. The firm, it is said, make excellent subjects for interviews by newspaper reporters.

B. DREYFUS & CO.

Formerly bought largely in this county but of late seem to have devoted their attention to Los Angeles, where they have large vineyards, and to Fresno. They own the Mount Pisgah vineyard, near Sonoma, consisting of about 180 acres in bearing vines. Messrs. Dreyfus & Co. were the first to build large cellars in the city and have a magnificent building on Brannan and 4th streets. The head of the firm, Mr. Goldenstein, used formerly to be well known in our valley, but it is now some time since he visited us. We understand that the oldest port wines on the coast can be found in their cellars.

KOHLER & FROHLING.

Mr. Kohler of Kohler & Frohling, who died very suddenly a few days ago, was a liberal contributor to any fund necessary to wine legislation or the development of the industry. The firm owns the large Tokay Vineyard near Glen Ellen, on which they have immense cellars, a distillery and a sherry house. At present being almost altogether stocked with resistant vines it does not produce much, but large quantities of grapes are annually purchased from the neighboring growers. They also own extensive vineyards in Los Angeles county and seem to pay particular attention to the vines of that region, for we do not hear of them buying much in our county, which is much to be regretted, especially as the firm has so thoroughly and liberally identified itself with the best interests of Old Sonoma.

J. GUNDLACH & CO.

The genial Mr. Gundlach of J. Gundlach & Co. is so well known amongst us as to require no comment and the same may be said of his partner, Mr. Bundschu. These gentlemen take the greatest possible pride in their wines and their Gutedel, Riesling and Traminer are known even in Europe. Mr. Bundschu takes almost complete charge of the business and goes in for nothing but high grade wines, and with Mr. C. Schilling, pays more for fine wines than any other firm on the coast. The firm, besides owning extensive cellars on the well known Rhine Farm near Sonoma, buy largely of Sonoma county wines and are thorough believers in the quality of our productions. Messrs. Gundlach & Co.'s excellent display at the Mechanics' Fair ever forms an important feature in the exhibit and no more tasteful mode of advertising could be found than in the cards and calendars annually issued by them.

C. SCHILLING.

Late Walter, Schilling & Co., though a German, is an enthusiast on the subject of fine wines—especially of clarets, and never hesitates to pay a high price for the quality of wine he desires, and is willing to go to the trouble and expense of developing by age new varieties in order to find out their perfections or faults and thus further advance the production only of "grand cru." Mr. Schilling is a dangerous man to meet on the road as he always goes armed with almost a small cellar of excellent wine and a bountiful supply of good cigars. The New York branch of the firm is Messrs. Tyson & Totten. Mr. Schilling like Mr. Bundschu makes it a point when visiting a cellar never to find fault with the wines unless there is actually fault to be found and is ever willing to give praise where praise is due. He also firmly refuses to look at any wines or do any work on Sundays.

HARASATHY & CO.

Mr. Arpad Harasathy of Harasathy & Co. is now chiefly devoting himself to the production of the famous Eclipse Champagne which is manufactured in the natural way without any foreign additions of gas, etc. Mr. Harasathy pays a liberal price for the wines best suited for his special business and will buy no trash. Being ever gentlemanly he is universally popular with the growers, is a ready speaker and a good taster. The firm owns the well known Orleans Vineyard near Madison in Yolo county.

KOHLER & VAN BERGAN.

Have not been very long in the business and, so far as we know, have never bought wine in this county, devoting their attention chiefly to the Sacramento valley. Their office is located on Montgomery street.

T. & M. E. TOBIN.

Are leaving the trade, so little need be said about them, excepting that at last Mr. Tobin has found out that he knows more about dry goods than wet goods—wine. While in the business they were liberal buyers.

MR. LE NORMAND.

Of Le Normand Brothers is a very close buyer, but will buy no wine that is not sound and good in every way. He does a very large family trade, chiefly in red wines, and is one of the best tasters on the coast and has reduced the art of blending to a science. Mr. Le Normand does not seem to believe in the highest grades of clarets, but pins his faith on 12 percent of alcohol in Zinfandel and Black Burgundy.

HOELCHER & CO.

Who have recently moved into more extensive cellars, do a large city business in white wines of the hook type. They are great believers in Sonoma wines and generally pay a fair price for what they purchase.

COUNTY ITEMS.

Tuesday's rain was general throughout the county.

Hyge Giberson, the young man who accidentally shot himself one day last week at Two Rocks, died last Monday night.

Mrs. McGrew, residing at Stony Point, near Petaluma, was stricken with paralysis last Saturday and died the following Monday.

The following change in the star service has been ordered: Cloverdale to Geyser Springs—From May 1st to October 31st, leave Cloverdale Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 1:30 p. m. and arrive at Geyser Springs at 4:30 p. m.; leave Geyser Springs Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 8 a. m. and arrive at Cloverdale at 12 m.

The Ukiah stage was stopped between Hopland and Cloverdale last Tuesday by a masked highwayman, and Wells Fargo & Co.'s box relieved of $30. As the stage neared a well-known redwood tree, a man appeared with a burly sack as a mask. His hands and feet were also covered with sacks, which made a complete disguise. He carried a Winchester rifle and his demand for the Wells-Fargo box was at once complied with by Bill Blackmore, the driver, with the above result.

J. F. Cacho in the Tolls of the Law.

A few weeks ago a man claiming to be a special correspondent of the "Examiner" made his appearance in Sonoma and registered at the Union Hotel as J. F. Cacho. Although unprovided with credentials, he very easily wormed himself into the good graces of several of our rich vineyardists and was wine and dined by them in grand style. He was not so successful, however, in ingratiating himself into the good graces of Cashier Burris of the Sonoma Valley Bank, for when Cacho very nonchalantly tossed a check on the bank's counter and asked that it be cashed, that worthy became quite indignant when the cashier very blandly informed him that he would like to know "who's who" and he must get some responsible party to identify him. This evidently alarmed the bogus correspondent and the next day he lit out for greener fields and pastures new, leaving hotel and liverty men to mourn his somewhat hasty departure, as there were several little bills which he forgot to settle before leaving.

Shortly after shaking the town Mr. Cacho bobbed up solemnly in Santa Rosa, where he was arrested last Wednesday for uttering several forged checks on the banks of that city. The same obtained varied bounties of $40 and $50 on each note, of which some half dozen were forged. Mr. Cacho now languishes in the Santa Rosa Jail and it is very probable that his little financial schemes to "raise the wind" will land him over the Bay.

Death of a Leading Viticulturist.

Charles Kohler, one of the leading wine merchants and vineyardists on this coast, was stricken with apoplexy, last Sunday, while riding in a San Francisco street car, and expired instantly and without a struggle. He was a member of the firm of Kohler & Frohling, proprietors of the Tokay Vineyard on which is located the largest wine-cellar in Sonoma Valley. The firm also owns immense vineyards in Los Angeles, Fresno, Napa and San Francisco. Mr. Kohler was one of the most liberal and enterprising of our wine merchants. His purse was ever open to advance the interests of viticultural and vinicultural pursuits and he has probably done more for our wine industry than any other one man in this State. Mr. Kohler, when he died was only 57 years of age, and his robust appearance gave promise of many years yet of active life, and his sudden demise was a great shock to his many friends, who are not confined to any particular locality but are to be found in almost every section of the State. He came to California early in the fifties and has ever taken an interest in whatever pertained to its welfare. It can truly be said that Mr. Kohler's death is a public calamity.

R. D. Moore of the Occidental keeps a first-class house.

We Know Such a One.

It is a great thing to be rich, but a terrible thing to be poor when it snows. We would a thousand times rather be poor and out in a snow storm than be a rich man, who is too penurious to enjoy his wealth or to allow the community where he has accumulated his possessions to derive any benefit from the same. Such a man thinks he is respected—that his riches command respect. To a certain extent and with a certain class they do, but to the sensible, intelligent man, it is a sentiment of pity mingled with disgust, rather than respect. The penurious rich man stands in the way of every improvement. The word taxation makes him sick and he hates a subscription paper worse than the devil. He loves to see his neighbors make improvements, but will enhance the value of his property, but never a cent will he put up. He can't understand why anyone wants to take newspapers, especially if it costs anything, and the idea of advertising was never entertained by him. The thought of a boom striking the community where he resides, and of people coming in and settling near him makes him uneasy lest the farmer who is heavily mortgaged to him may get out of his grasp by selling his place at a good figure. The word "progress" he dislikes almost as he does "taxation." He is compelled to aid in the support of public schools, but churches, societies and libraries he has no use for.

Important to Teachers.

For the specific information of those who expect to be applicants for certificates at the examination of teachers which commences in Santa Rosa, on the 7th of next June, we publish the following, from Mrs. Martin, Superintendent of Schools:

By an Act of the Legislature, approved March 15, 1887, section 1771 of the Political Code was amended to read as follows:

1771. County Boards of Education have power to examine applicants and to prescribe a standard of proficiency which will entitle the person examined to a certificate, and to grant certificates of three grades, as follows:

1. Grammar School Course—Valid for four years, authorizing holder to teach in any high school, grammar school, course, primary grade and primary school.

2. Grammar Grade—Valid for three years, authorizing holder to teach any grammar grade and primary school.

3. Primary—Valid for two years, authorizing holder to teach any primary school.

The grammar school course was established by the Legislature in 1883. The law was framed especially to enable the public schools to prepare pupils for admission to the State University.

The Grammar Grade is our present first grade; the Primary our present second grade.

Examination for the grammar school or Carminetti course was provided for by the County Board of Education, by adding to the first grade studies general history, literature and geometry.

After July 1st rhetoric will be substituted for composition in the first grade, and the number of credits attached to all, except the test studies, will be uniformly 50. The test studies, arithmetic, grammar and orthography, will retain 100 credits each.

Since first grade certificates are now valid for but three years, the experience requisite to obtain one is reduced from two years to one year.

A Suggestion to the Traveling Public.

Tourists, emigrants and mariners find that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicinal safeguard against unwholesome influences, upon which they can implicitly rely, since it prevents the effects of vitiated diet, bad water or other conditions unfavorable to health. On long voyages, or journeys in latitudes adjacent to the equator, it is especially useful as a preventive of the febrile complaints and disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, which are apt to attack the natives of the temperate zone sojourning or traveling in such regions, and it is an excellent protection against the influence of extreme cold, sudden changes of temperature, exposure to damp or extreme heat. It not only prevents intermittent and remittent fever, and other diseases of a malarial type, but eradicates them, a fact which has been notorious for years past in North and South America, Mexico, the West Indies, Australia and other countries.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

KISSANE.

"Teach me to feel another's woe, To hide the fault I see; That mercy I to others show, That mercy show to me."

The good of any community requires that individual character should be held sacred, and error and even crime should not be exposed but for the public good. Hence by common law, to publish libelous matter against a private citizen was itself a crime to be punished by fine and imprisonment. Nor was it originally any defense to plead that the libelous matter was true in fact, and the proverb became common: "The truer the fact, the greater the libel." It meant that private character was too sacred to be questioned except for the public good. For the benefit of the public newspaper law, however, this sentiment has been so far modified by modern constitutions as to enable a defendant in case of indictment for libel to plead the truth of the libelous matter if published without malice and for justifiable ends. So the law stands to-day.

Would this law justify or excuse the late

SENSATIONAL ARTICLES

Professing to give the private history of one Wm. Kissane, that have lain dormant for more than thirty years and now raised and published, professing to have discovered that Wm. Kissane is now living in Sonoma under an assumed name that is honored and respected throughout the community for wealth and good conduct for more than a generation.

Assuming that Kissane was a criminal to the extent indicated and that the identity is correct, why publish it to the four winds of the earth? Does justice require it? No. The law has made no demands. No. Neither justice, nor the peace, nor the good of community have called for, or can justify, the publication of such scandalous matter after thirty years' good behavior. The Judge of all the world has decreed that to learn to do evil and learn to do well is commendable, and his sins and iniquities shall be forgiven and remembered no more against him forever.

WHAT THE LAW EXACTS.

Our law, likewise, for the repose of human society has its limitations, and in less time than the years in which it is admitted. Kissane has fulfilled all the duties of a good citizen for more than a generation what motive can induce the publication of these scandals? Certainly it was not for justice, for all the offenses indicated in the history Kissane had been arraigned, tried and acquitted, except for forgery, in which two indictments seem to have been found. On one of these he had been convicted and subsequently pardoned, doubtless with the understanding that the whole offense had been considered and atoned and the remaining one was never to be prosecuted. This is a fair presumption from all the circumstances. The whole offense was atoned for and settled by that conviction and pardon.

WHAT PRESUMPTION,

Therefore, the reporter, mentioned in the INDEX-TRIBUNE of week before last, had in offering to Kissane the privilege of explaining. I leave for the public to judge. What vexation and destruction of character we would experience if half our fellow citizens were called upon to explain a blot made thirty years ago in their character. The palliating circumstances have been forgotten, and none could satisfactorily explain. The presumption of law comes in that everything was judicially settled by that conviction and pardon, and to ask an explanation is adding insult to injury.

The question arises why publish this scandalous matter now? Can it be for gain? Would it be of any benefit to the journalist to destroy the character that Kissane had made in the last thirty years? No. "He that filches from me my good name," as Shakespeare puts it, "takes that which not enriching him yet makes me poor, indeed." Would the journalist have it understood that he thought a man who had grown rich by thirty years honorable struggle would prefer paying a few thousand dollars rather than have such a scandalous publication circulated, and that he therefore designed blackmail by its issue? Would this be honorable journalism? Do

SENSATIONAL NEWSPAPERS

Live on tainted human reputation? We read in fancied history of the Ghoul, an evil spirit dwelling in graveyards and feasting on human decaying carcasses. Also, of the Ogre, another evil spirit, who fastens himself to human beings simply to oppress them without seeming benefit to itself. Also, of the Vampire, another evil spirit, who approaches stealthily and robs a human being of his blood. These all have a name and a calling, but none of them esteemed. No! all of them are hated and despised. What then shall we say of the journalist who lives on human reputation tainted by his pen and destroyed according to his ability?

THE GHOUL, THE OGRE AND THE VAMPIRE.

With their combined power for evil, cannot damage humanity like such a journalist. I know not by what name such papers should be known and called, but from all such I say, good Lord deliver us.

THIS STORY OF KISSANE,

Some ten or more years ago, was published in Sonoma county. All of us then living here have known it, but we also knew the man pointed at as an unobtrusive, modest, kind-hearted, good neighbor and friend, with a growing family, respected and innocent; that deserved and should have our respect and sympathy and moral support while passing through this cruel experience. Probably one hundred or more persons of the most respectable class are connected with this family by consanguinity or affinity. These all suffered, of course, by the former publication, but the accused was not cast off, deserted or despised by either relatives or former friends. Not one of them, I think, but supposed that he who may have been indiscreet or bad in his youth who yet had the stamina, the manhood, to reform, and live a respectable and successful life for thirty years should be still respected by all those who encourage reformation and study the peace and good order of the community.

Kissane has fulfilled all the duties of a good citizen for more than a generation what motive can induce the publication of these scandals? Certainly it was not for justice, for all the offenses indicated in the history Kissane had been arraigned, tried and acquitted, except for forgery, in which two indictments seem to have been found. On one of these he had been convicted and subsequently pardoned, doubtless with the understanding that the whole offense had been considered and atoned and the remaining one was never to be prosecuted. This is a fair presumption from all the circumstances. The whole offense was atoned for and settled by that conviction and pardon.

WHAT PRESUMPTION,

Therefore, the reporter, mentioned in the INDEX-TRIBUNE of week before last, had in offering to Kissane the privilege of explaining. I leave for the public to judge. What vexation and destruction of character we would experience if half our fellow citizens were called upon to explain a blot made thirty years ago in their character. The palliating circumstances have been forgotten, and none could satisfactorily explain. The presumption of law comes in that everything was judicially settled by that conviction and pardon, and to ask an explanation is adding insult to injury.

The question arises why publish this scandalous matter now? Can it be for gain? Would it be of any benefit to the journalist to destroy the character that Kissane had made in the last thirty years? No. "He that filches from me my good name," as Shakespeare puts it, "takes that which not enriching him yet makes me poor, indeed." Would the journalist have it understood that he thought a man who had grown rich by thirty years honorable struggle would prefer paying a few thousand dollars rather than have such a scandalous publication circulated, and that he therefore designed blackmail by its issue? Would this be honorable journalism? Do

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

A Multitudinous Clock.

The renowned horologist of Villigen in the Black Forest, Christian Martin, has just completed a clock which, as a marvel of construction, probably surpasses all that has hitherto been achieved in the clockmaking art. The clock is three and a half meters high, two and three-quarters broad and is set in a magnificent Gothic case. It shows the seconds, minutes, quarter hours, hours, days, weeks, months, the four seasons of the year, the years, and the leap years until the last second of the year 99,999 A. D. The clock is not only chronological, but geographical, and shows the right time by comparison, in every latitude of the northern and southern hemispheres. It records the successive phases of the moon and it strikes the minutes as well as the quarters and hours.

The mass of automatic machinery in it will seem stupendous, even to those who have seen the splendid specimens of local Black Forest clockmaking in the public clockmakers' Halls at Tribery, Furtwangen and other places, and the great clock on the opposite side of the Rhine in Strassburg Cathedral. There are multitudes of working figures, representing the life of man, the creed of Christendom, and the old German and Roman mythologies. There are sixty different personages to strike the sixty minutes—the Guardian Angel, Death as a skeleton, the twelve Apostles, the ages of man, the four seasons, the twelve signs of the zodiac, the seven Tonicic deities—after which our days of the week are named—and many others.

During the night hours, winter and summer, a watchman comes forward and blows the hour on his horn. At sunrise a cock appears and crows lustily. The cuckoo, the inevitable ornament of a Black Forest ideal clock, remains concealed in the works of Herr Martin's clock until spring. The great face of the clock has thirty-two distinct compartments. A whole series of movable pictures are exhibited in succession by the works—representing in turn the seven days of Creation and the fourteen "Stations of the Cross." A little sarotian rings a bell in the spire, and then kneels down and folds his hands. The musical works, always a great feature in the Black Forest clock, have a sweet, flute-like tone.—Echo.

A woman who keeps a boarding house on Larned street, called at police headquarters yesterday, to complain that a gentleman boarder had skipped her house, leaving a bill unpaid. "He owes me about forty dollars and I want him caught," she added.

"What kind of a person was he?" asked the sergeant. "Well, the day before he went away he offered to marry me to settle the bill. You can judge what heek he has."

"And you refused?"

"Yes—no—no, didn't!" she exclaimed as she blushed clear back to her ears. "It was all settled that we should be married, and that's one reason why I'll pursue him to the ends of the earth. A man who'll jump a board bill and a marriage engagement, too, is an outlaw who should be locked up."

"Isn't it your opinion that we shall have an early spring?" he asked of a Grand River avenue grocer.

"I shouldn't like to predict," was the reply.

"Afraid of making a mistake, eh?"

"Yes, I've got a lot of old debtors on my books, and have predicted a dozen times over that this one or that one would call around Saturday night and settle, but I've been left every time."

"Ha! ha!" laughed the other in a forced way, and as he walked off he muttered to himself: "If he thinks he can bulldoze that four-dollar out of me in any such way as that, he's mistaken, I'll pay when I get ready, spring or no spring."

An estimable lady of the west side has had the fortune of three husbands—two having passed over to the majority. By the first husband, there is a son; by the second, a very bright little daughter. One day, while some lady friends were luncheon with her mother, the little girl asked: "Mamma, has Jack a papa in heaven?"

"Yes, darling; hush! replied mamma."

"Have I a papa in heaven?"

"Yes, darling; hush!"

After a pause and profound thinking the little miss added: "Papa don't last long do they mamma?"

WHAT AILS THE NATION?

The Average Length of Life Decreasing—Not Pestilence—Not Famine—All our Own Fault.

MODERN COOKING AND MODERN LIVING have brought it on. It comes upon us unawares. The patients have pains about the chest and sides, and sometimes in the back. They feel dull and sleepy; the mouth has a bad taste, especially in the morning. A sort of sticky slime collects about the teeth. The appetite is poor. There is a feeling like a heavy load on the stomach; sometimes a faint, all-gone sensation at the pit of the stomach which food does not satisfy. The eyes are sunken, the hands and feet become cold and feel clammy. After a while a cough sets in, at first dry, but after a few months it is attended with a greenish-colored expectoration. The patient feels tired all the while, and sleep does not seem to afford any rest. After a time he becomes nervous, irritable and gloomy, and has evil forebodings. There is a giddiness, a sort of whirling sensation in the head when rising up suddenly. The bowels become constive; the skin is dry and hot at times; the blood becomes thick and stagnant; the whites of the eyes become tinged with yellow; the kidney secretions become scanty and high colored, depositing a sediment after standing. There is frequently a spitting up of the food, sometimes with a sour taste and sometimes with a sweetish taste; this is frequently attended with palpitation of the heart and Asthmatic symptoms; the vision becomes impaired, with spots before the eyes; there is a feeling of great prostration and weakness. All of these symptoms are in turn present. It is thought that nearly one-half of our population has this disease in some of its varied forms. Shaker Extract of Roots (Seigel's Syrup) changes the ferments of the Digestive organs so as to convert the food we eat into a form that will give nourishment to the feeble body, and good health is the consequence. The effect of this remedy is simply marvelous. Millions upon millions of bottles have been sold in this country, and the testimonials in favor of its curative powers are overwhelming. Hundreds of so-called diseases under various names are the result of indigestion, and when this one trouble is removed the other diseases vanish, for they are but symptoms of the real malady.

Testimonials from thousands of people speaking highly of its curative properties prove this beyond a doubt. Sold by druggists.

S.S.S.

About twenty years ago I discovered a little sore on my chest, and the doctors pronounced it cancer. I have tried a number of physicians, but without receiving any permanent benefit. Among the number were one or two specialists. The medicine they applied was like fire to the sore, causing intense pain. I saw a statement in the papers telling what S. S. S. had done for others similarly afflicted. I procured some at once. Before I had used the second bottle the neighbors could notice that my cancer was healing up. My general health had been bad for two or three years—had a hacking cough and spit blood continually. I had a severe pain in my breast. After taking six bottles of S. S. S. my cough left me and I grew stouter than I had been for several years. My cancer has healed over all but a little spot about the size of a half dime, and it is rapidly disappearing. I would advise every one with cancer to give S. S. S. a fair trial.
